

PHP Meny

Reflection

In this project we had to create a multipage website with a HTML file called menu.php which will be includes on all pages.

My work

When I started working on the assignment I felt a little overwhelmed because I hadn't created a website for several months and because we were going to use GitHub, which I have never tried before. Then when I got started it wasn't that hard. Of course there were some problems starting up and some errors were made, but not anything critical.

When I finished this assignment I felt motivated to use the PHP Menu on my own personal portfolio.

Response

(Will be added later.)

Ideas for changes

If I wanted to change anything it would be the styling of the website, but as the design wasn't an important part of this assignment it would be redundant.

Go back to the website